- Dear Senator Cruz,

I, like millions of Americans and millions more around the world, read in horror about the continuous school shootings. My heart breaks for the parents, families, and loved ones of the innocent victims of a senseless tragedy. I am guilty of having seen so many other tragedies unfold to this point, and failing to act out of a sense of hopelessness. I felt my voice would have no impact and fall on deaf ears, and so I chose the easier path forward: do nothing. However, I choose to break this cycle of paralysis now and write to you now to demand stricter gun control measures that may help to prevent another Robb Elementary School, Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, or Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting from happening again.

The path forward will meet resistance from many who understandably want to ensure their constitutional liberties are not impeded. However, we must consider the rising toll that lax gun control laws have on the public health and on society at large.

Sincerely ,
